Communists Ready To Open Big Guns In 'Peace Parley'

Billion And Half People Slated To Be Represented At Peiping Propaganda Breeding Conclave

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(P)—Opening barrages of a gigantic world Communist peace offensive will be fired this weekend. The thunder of the propaganda guns will mark the first phase of a new Soviet tactical assault on the United States.

For about 30 countries—those in Asia and those such as Canada and Latin America bordering the Pacific—delegates have assembled in Peiping, capital of Communist China, to do the bidding of the Moscow-Peiping axis in this latest campaign.

The presence of large delegations from Latin America can be regarded as a clear warning to the Western Powers.

The countries "represented" by the Communist-inspired delegates have a population of more than a billion and a half people and cover two-thirds of the earth's surface.

Plans for this assault were concocted in July, under Soviet guidance, at the conference of the Com-

Canada Probes Theft Of Gold

$300,000 In Bullion Taken From Airport

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—(P)—A Canada-wide alarm is out for nearly a half ton of gold, valued at about $300,000, which vanished after it was placed in an unguarded, padlocked cargo shed at nearby Malton Airport Terminal.

Police said they believed the gold had been stolen but there appeared to be some question as to where the theft might have taken place. Officials were closed-mouthed about details of both the disappearance and the subsequent investigation.

If the bullion had been stolen, it was Canada's third major gold theft in four months.

Packed in six boxes weighing a total of 848 pounds, the gold apparently vanished late Wednesday. Police were not called in, however, until Thursday.

The six boxes of precious metal were part of a shipment of 10 in transit to Montreal. Only four of the 10, containing about $150,000 worth of bullion, were checked in at the final destination.

OFFICIALS OF Trans-Canada Airlines, which operates the air terminal, declined comment except for a brief statement saying:

"As far as TCA is concerned, the gold is just missing. We have no official knowledge that it was stolen. Nor do we know exactly what it is worth."

These details were known:

The gold was delivered under guard to the airport by Brinks, Inc., the armored money-car firm.

It was turned over to TCA cargo handlers who signed a receipt for it and placed it in a wirenet cage.

The cage was locked with a small padlock but no guards were stationed near it.

Two Crewmen Blamed For Carrier Fire

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—(P)—Two crewmen of the aircraft carrier Boxer have been punished and transferred from the ship as a result of the explosion which ripped the carrier's hangar deck off Korea Aug. 6, the Boxer's captain said Thursday.

Nine men were killed. Sixty leaped overboard, but were later rescued. Planes, gasoline and ammunition flamed and exploded after a 20 millimeter shell ripped into the wing tank of a plane.

Capt. Marshall Gurney, Boxer commander, said the two men were judged careless. The Boxer returned here after her third tour of Korean duty.

He declined to release the names of the two, but said they were punished at Captain's Mast, the Navy court for minor offenses and later transferred off the ship. Nor did he say what the punishment included.

DAYTON, Sept. 26.—(P)—Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) Thursday night said Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois was a "bright and willing apprentice of the Fair Deal."

Bricker said Stevenson as governor "inherited a state surplus of $100 million. By the end of his first two years in office the surplus was reduced to $60 million."

County Doctors Ask Probe Of District's Phone Service

Pickaway County Medical Society, denouncing service of Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. as "exasperating" and "potentially calamitous," asked Friday for an investigation of the utility.

The request was made in a letter sent to the Ohio Public Utilities Commission and signed by Dr. E. L. Montgomery for the medical group.

Meanwhile, residents of the Circleville area seemed assured of full opportunity to protest a proposed rate increase for the firm.

A strategy huddle, held in Columbus Thursday by attorneys representing 18 communities served by Ohio Consolidated, served to clear the decks for the main hearing starting Monday on the rate request before the PUCO.

Plans to take advantage of the opportunity have been under discussion locally for at least a week. Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative, has announced his willingness to accompany and advise any district residents who wish to participate in the Columbus hearing.

Penn urged that those interested in going to the hearing at Columbus contact him at their earliest convenience. He was especially interested in having a representative group to speak for the community before the PUCO.

The 18 communities united in the group litigation have decided to fight both company actions, before the PUCO and the state high tribunal.

After filing its request, the company was granted an interim increase—portion of the boost requested—but has already appealed the interim grant to the state supreme court, claiming it is insufficient.

City Cab Co. Asks Permission To Increase Rates Five Cents

City Cab Co. has asked permission of the municipal taxi board to raise its rates five cents on both local and country service.

Mayor Ed Amey said Friday the board will meet at the first opportunity to consider the new scale of 30 cents for trips inside Circleville and 35 cents a mile for those beyond the corporation limits.

He estimated the driver for such a trip would receive $3.60 and that it would cost the company $4 to send the cab. That would leave a net profit of 40 cents on the trip.

Goldschmidt said Circleville residents are apparently well above the community average in offering rides in their private cars, a major factor against profitable cab service.

He also pointed out that the city cabs have two-way radios while many other communities the size of Circleville do not have such modern facilities.

GOLDSCHEIDT, WHO has had the firm for about a year and a half, outlined the thin margin of profit under the present rate and operating setup.

He said it costs the company eight cents a mile to operate each cab, and the vehicles average about 250 miles per day apiece.

The company keeps four cabs in operation during the day with one in reserve. All but one are 1952 models.

Even under the present rate, Goldschmidt said, the company would lose money on the 25-cent city fare if it were not for the multiple-load arrangement—hauling more than one customer at the same time.

The drivers, who get a base rate of 35 percent but average 40 percent, "wouldn't be able to make a decent living" if the company expanded its service even with one additional cab, the owner said.

The drivers work 12-hour shifts and a six-day week.

As an illustration of the profit margin, Goldschmidt said the one-way fare to Columbus is eight dollars on the approximately 50-mile round trip for the cab.

He estimated the driver for such a trip would receive $3.60 and that it would cost the company $4 to send the cab. That would leave a net profit of 40 cents on the trip.

Goldschmidt said Circleville residents are apparently well above the community average in offering rides in their private cars, a major factor against profitable cab service.

He also pointed out that the city cabs have two-way radios while many other communities the size of Circleville do not have such modern facilities.

As to the "grief" arising from efforts to serve the local public, Goldschmidt said far too many local residents phone for a cab and then fail to wait for it.

In many such cases, he added, the person who calls for a cab walks outside and is given a ride by a friend or neighbor. And they forget to call back and cancel the cab.

"Others," he recalled, "phone and say they want a cab to go east, when in reality they want to travel in some other direction. And when we have other passengers already in the car, we naturally have to take the latest passenger out of his or her way—and it isn't our fault."

Another problem applies to taxi cab service in almost all communities.

"When it rains," Goldschmidt said, "everybody in town seems to want a cab and, of course, we can't take care of everybody at the same time."

Dem Nominee Says '8 Or 9' Aides Benefit

Donor List Roundup Made; Adlai Replaces Nixon On Hot Seat

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 26.—(P)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson said Friday he is contacting contributors to his much discussed fund for supplementing state salaries, with a view to making their names public.

The Democratic nominee said he was having trouble with his campaign because there were "so many" donors.

BEFORE BOARDING his airplane for another campaign tour, Stevenson told newsmen "eight or nine" key state employees benefited from the fund, and he had been in touch with all of them.

The campaign tour, to last two days, takes Stevenson to Evansville, Ind., Indianapolis, Paducah, Ky., and Louisville.

Stevenson said he would issue a statement on the fund later on, and possibly make a speech dealing with it. He did not say when.

Stevenson's new statement regarding his controversial fund for adding to salaries of Illinois officials followed his promise Thursday to give more details.

So far, Stevenson has declined to reveal how big the fund was, who contributed to it, or who got what amounts from it. What he has said about it is this:

Although there has been no secrecy about the fund, it would be a breach of faith to name those who benefited from it. The fund was set up with money left over from Stevenson's 1948 campaign for governor, plus some donations made since. It has been used for gifts to a few persons Stevenson has appointed to state office.

AS A RESULT, competent men, who could not have afforded otherwise to give up better paying private positions, have been drawn into state jobs.

Top Republicans, including Sen. Richard M. Nixon, the GOP vice presidential nominee who has been on the spot himself keep insisting that isn't enough explanation and the public has a right to more.

Nixon has been under fire for accepting and spending an $18,000 fund donated by California political friends to help him meet expenses. Stevenson said last week it was up to the Republican Party to bring out who gave the money, whether it influenced Nixon's actions as a senator, and whether any laws were broken.

Wyatt said that he did not know when the governor would issue his statement about the pay-supplementing fund.

While GOP leaders voiced satisfaction Nixon had used none of the expense money for his personal use, there was considerable discussion about such funds.

Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) declared Friday night that he believed in the future "it would be better that official party organizations receive funds rather than individuals. I believe that is a better way of handling it."

President Truman declined to be drawn into discussion of the funds.

BUT HE SAID he still thinks all top-salaried government officials, including members of Congress, should be required to file full public statements of their income. He has offered such a bill to Congress, but the solons have wanted no part of it.

For Friday, the schedule called for a Stevenson speech in Evansville, Ind., and a major address on

Ike Lashes Out Hard At Truman Defense Policies

Armed Forces Unification Said 'Triplication'; General Opposed To UMT At This Time

BALTIMORE, Sept. 26.—(P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower headed for Dixie after being acclaimed here Thursday night for his slashing attack on the Truman administration's defense policies.

The Republican presidential nominee, speaking from his background as a general of the Armies, told a howling crowd of 12,000 persons who jammed Baltimore's Fifth Regiment Armory that armed services unification is a virtual failure.

Continuing his bristling indictment, Eisenhower said instead of duplication the United States has reaped "triplication" from efforts to mold its fighting forces into one.

Eisenhower's attack on the Truman administration's policies was delivered against the background of one of the greatest ovations Baltimore has given a presidential candidate in many years.

In a setting where Woodrow Wilson was nominated for the presidency by the Democrats in 1912, the general spoke surely and with confidence and the crowd responded to the demand for a change in Washington.

commanders in World War II, this was not entirely clear when he said:

"Our defense program has suffered from lack of foresighted direction. Real unification of our armed force is yet to be achieved. Our defense program need not and must not push us steadily toward economic collapse."

The general placed the primary blame on the politicians of the Truman administration.

Trygve Lie May Leave UN

Retirement Hinted As Coming In 1954

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 26.—(P)—Secretary-General Trygve Lie has decided to step down from his $40,000-a-year UN post on Feb. 1, 1954, at the end of a three-year extension of his term, and retire to Norway.

This was disclosed Friday by persons who know the mind of Norway's former foreign minister. He has been top boss of the 4,000-man UN Secretariat since 1946.

When he leaves, he will get a lifetime pension of $10,000 a year, but he cannot hold public office until he has been away from UN five years. Lie is now 56.

Lie's intentions came to the fore as UN officials studied draft of a staff reorganization scheme which would abolish the posts of eight assistant secretaries general, each paid $22,000 annually, and would create three deputy secretaries general, each at a considerably higher salary.

LIE WAS SAID to have described this plan as his "last will and testament." He is known to be extremely anxious to have the Secretariat staff on a sound footing before he leaves.

Some of his assistants are not optimistic about the fate of this plan. They foresee opposition from those countries which could not expect to have a deputy under the new arrangement. There also is a growing feeling among the small countries that such big powers as the United States, Britain, France and Russia have too much of the gravy in UN posts. The smaller countries seem determined to cut the big power representation in the high brackets as much as possible.

The plan likely will be discussed, then put off to the 1953 assembly, which must choose Lie's successor.

A strategy huddle, held in Columbus Thursday by attorneys representing 18 communities served by Ohio Consolidated, served to clear the decks for the main hearing starting Monday on the rate request before the PUCO.

CURRENT LOCAL opposition against the rate hike was recently given momentum by the Medical Society when it disclosed plans for a formal protest.

Following through, with a communication addressed to Chairman Robert Moulton of the PUCO, the society said:

"The Pickaway County Medical Society at its last meeting voted unanimously in favor of a resolution asking that the Public Utility Commission of Ohio investigate the meager service rendered to its subscribers by The Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co."

"It was the common experience of all the physicians that the telephone service was routinely inadequate and exasperating. In times of emergencies the service is grievous and potentially calamitous."

"Past experiences with complaints to the local office of the telephone company have been without results. We petition the Public Utilities Commission to make its own investigation and if possible to remedy the situation."

Local phone subscribers have been promised a chance to voice their complaints at the hearing opening Monday and have also been given to understand that a special service hearing can be held in Circleville if public interest warrants.

RICHARD PENN, Circleville attorney representing the local area in the rate case without remuneration, attended the Thursday meeting and obtained information as to the part this city can play in the fight.

He was notified that a certain time during the PUCO hearing will be set aside especially to hear complaints from Circleville district residents. The hour and date for this opportunity has yet to be set by the PUCO.

Gov. Stevenson said he will appear in Ohio in a whistle-stop tour of Eastern states beginning at Springfield, Ill., probably Oct. 22 or 23. The dates and times of the tour will be made available the middle of next week, his office said.

Stevenson previously announced he will fly to Cincinnati Oct. 3 for a luncheon meeting and make a major address in Columbus that evening.

City Cab Co. Asks Permission To Increase Rates Five Cents

City Cab Co. has asked permission of the municipal taxi board to raise its rates five cents on both local and country service.

Mayor Ed Amey said Friday the board will meet at the first opportunity to consider the new scale of 30 cents for trips inside Circleville and 35 cents a mile for those beyond the corporation limits.

Dr. D. S. Goldschmidt, owner of the company, said the increase is urgently needed to provide more pay for the drivers and facilitate operations.

He also pointed out some of the problems faced by the concern and asked for public suggestions on "how the service can reasonably be improved."

GOLDSCHMIDT, WHO has had the firm for about a year and a half, outlined the thin margin of profit under the present rate and operating setup.

Hope Is Seen For Accord In Iranian Crisis

Oil Rich Country's Premier Hints Nation May Turn To Reds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 — (AP) — United States officials see some hope, but not very much, in Premier Mossadegh's latest proposal for a settlement of his country's oil dispute with Britain.

The Iranian premier's tough talking note (he appeared to imply his country might go Communist unless his demands were met) was received here Thursday addressed to President Truman.

It was in the form of a copy of a detailed set of counter proposals which he addressed initially to British Prime Minister Churchill.

The message to the two Western leaders was considered tough in three respects:

1. Mossadegh rejected as "inequitable" a joint settlement plan which Truman and Churchill placed before him on Aug. 30.

2. He waved the apparent Communist threat.

3. He gave only 10 days from Friday for an answer.

THE IMPLIED THREAT to yield to Communism was seen in this paragraph:

"In the present circumstances the Iranian nation may follow one of two roads; either it should endeavor to improve the social conditions and ameliorate the situation of the deprived classes, something that would be impossible without the income from oil, or, if this road should remain blocked, it should surrender itself to probable future events which would be to the detriment of world peace."

State Department officials said there would be quick consultation between British and American leaders who have struggled with the Iranian problem for months.

The principal reason for hope among American experts now is that Mossadegh has not closed the door to a settlement. One informant said, "Our policy certainly is to keep the door open and we will do all we can to that end now that he has not closed it."

However, the odds against settlement still appeared almost overwhelming, particularly because one of Mossadegh's powerful political supporters has already attacked Mossadegh's proposals as too soft and in effect threatened an overthrow of the government if they are accepted.

Farm Land Price Upswing Slowing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 — (AP) — A decline in the prosperity of farmers is acting as a brake on a long upswing in prices of farm land, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

Land prices increased less during the four-month period ended last July 1 than in any other four-month period since the war in Korea began in mid-1950. The department has reported that farm income will be smaller this year than last, largely because of higher production costs.

George Bowers Back In States

Returning to San Francisco aboard the aircraft carrier USS Boxer Friday was Gerald F. Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bowers of Circleville.

The Boxer is completing its third tour of duty in Korean waters with fast carrier Task Force 77.

Her pilots have taken part in air strikes against the North Korean power plants, the capital city of Pyongyang, Wonsan, Chongjin, Songjin and numerous other smaller North Korean targets.

Students Reminded In Draft Listing

Local Selective Service offices Friday reminded students going away to school they are required to register at a draft board when they reach the age of 18.

However, the student isn't obliged to register with his local board before he leaves for school. He may instead register with the board in the vicinity of his school, and that board in turn will forward the papers to the appropriate home board.

Under regulations, registration is required within five days after the 18th birthday.

economy in government in Indianapolis Friday night.

Thirteen electoral votes are at stake in Indiana, where a hot Senate race pits William Jenner against the present Democratic governor of the state, Henry F. Schriener.

JENNER IS A controversial figure who has denounced Gen. George C. Marshall, whom the GOP nominee, Dwight Eisenhower, has defended as a great patriot.

Jenner also has attacked various parts of America's foreign policy which Eisenhower supports.

But Eisenhower and Jenner have campaigned side by side in Indiana, and the general has urged Hoosier voters to spare no effort to elect the entire Republican ticket—Jenner included.

Stevenson aides said that as a result it seemed to be a good bet that the Illinois governor would expand what he has said several times before—that Eisenhower has adopted a "dangerous" theory of supporting all candidates of the GOP—good, bad or indifferent—regardless of their views.

Stevenson has said that for his part he will not place party regularity above political ethics, even at the risk of losing the election, because "victory can be bought too dearly."

Hope Is Seen For Accord In Iranian Crisis

Oil Rich Country's Premier Hints Nation May Turn To Reds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 — (AP)—United States officials see some hope, but not very much, in Premier Mossadegh's latest proposal for a settlement of his country's oil dispute with Britain.

The Iranian premier's tough talking note (the appeared to imply his country might go Communist unless his demands were met) was received here Thursday addressed to President Truman.

It was in the form of a copy of a detailed set of counter proposals which he addressed initially to British Prime Minister Churchill.

The message to the two Western leaders was considered tough in these respects:

1. Mossadegh rejected as "inequitable" a joint settlement plan which Truman and Churchill placed before him on Aug. 30.

2. He waved the apparent Communist threat.

3. He gave only 10 days from Friday for an answer.

THE IMPLIED THREAT to yield to Communism was seen in this paragraph:

"In the present circumstances the Iranian nation may follow one of two roads; either it should endeavor to improve the social conditions and ameliorate the situation of the deprived classes, something that would be impossible without the income from oil, or, if this road should remain blocked, it should surrender itself to probable future events which would be to the detriment of world peace."

State Department officials said there would be quick consultation between British and American leaders who have struggled with the Iranian problem for months.

The principal reason for hope among American experts now is that Mossadegh has not closed the door to a settlement. One informant said, "Our policy certainly is to keep the door open and we will do all we can to that end now that he has not closed it."

However, the odds against settlement still appeared almost overwhelming, particularly because one of Mossadegh's powerful political supporters has already attacked Mossadegh's proposals as too soft and in effect threatened an overthrow of the government if they are accepted.

No Teachers; Kids Given Vacation

DOVER, Sept. 26 — (AP)—The 88 pupils in the seventh to 12th grades in nearby Dundee school are getting an unscheduled holiday because of a teacher shortage.

The shortage became overbearing Thursday when coach-teacher George Mourouzis was inducted into the service. Another teacher is slated for Army service next week. For the upper six grades, which normally have five teachers, there are only two on fulltime and one on parttime.

Stevenson aides said that as a result it seemed to be a good bet that the Illinois governor would expand what he has said several times before—that Eisenhower has adopted a "dangerous" theory of supporting all candidates of the GOP—good, bad or indifferent—regardless of their views.

Friday Night May See Yanks Rack Up Flag

Cleveland Sits Idle,
Unable To Turn Hand
Against Bronx Crew

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(P)—This is flag day for the New York Yankees.

A victory over the Athletics at Philadelphia Friday night will give Casey Stengel's men their fourth straight American League pennant—a feat in major league history accomplished only by Joe McCarthy's 1936-39 Yanks and John McGraw's National League Giants of the roaring 20s.

To try to wrap up the pennant and earn the right to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series opening next Wednesday at Ebbets Field, Stengel will send the junkman of his pitching staff, southpaw Eddie Lopat, against young Harry Byrd of the A's.

Lopat, back in the groove after suffering back miseries during the summer, has won his last five starts for a 10-5 record. Byrd, beaten 1-0 by the Yanks last Sunday, carries a 15-14 mark.

There is nothing the runnerup Cleveland Indians can do about the situation. They are idle until Sunday when they open a two-game final series in Detroit.

Trailing by 2½ games the Tribe can only hope for a complete collapse by the champions and two triumphs by themselves over the Tigers. Such an outcome would throw the race in a tie and force a one-game playoff in Cleveland Monday.

ALLIE REYNOLDS, the strong-armed right hander, assured the Yankees of a tie Thursday as he joined Hal Newhouser, another veteran moundsman, in producing outstanding performances.

Reynolds' 3-2 conquest of the Boston Red Sox was not only an artistic but a financial success since it went a long way toward making each of the Yankee players some $5,000 richer.

Newhouser, in the twilight of his 14-year career with the Detroit Tigers, can look for no such financial gain, however, but his 3-2 triumph over the St. Louis Browns was the 200th of his major league career and placed him in a select group with 54 other pitchers.

It was a great day for Reynolds, who a year ago this week pitched a no-hitter against the same Red Sox to clinch the Yanks' 1951 championship.

The pitching of the quarter-blooded Creek Indian was not of that variety Thursday, but he drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single to rack up his 20th win of the season.

Only 569 fans — smallest crowd in Briggs Stadium's history — saw the 31-year-old Newhouser strike out eight, walk only one and pitch out of two bad spots in joining the comparatively small group of pitchers who have won 200 games. Only two other active pitchers, Bob Feller and Bobo Newsom, are in the group.

The only day game in the National League saw the New York Giants clinch second place with a two-run ninth inning rally that brought a 3-2 victory over the Boston Braves.

The only night game, like those played in the sunlight, was decided in the ninth inning when the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3.

Friday Night May See Yanks Rack Up Flag

Cleveland Sits Idle,
Unable To Turn Hand
Against Bronx Crew

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(P)—This is flag day for the New York Yankees.

A victory over the Athletics at Philadelphia Friday night will give Casey Stengel's men their fourth straight American League pennant—a feat in major league history accomplished only by Joe McCarthy's 1936-39 Yanks and John McGraw's National League Giants of the roaring 20s.

Try to wrap up the pennant and earn the right to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series opening next Wednesday at Ebbets Field, Stengel will send the junkman of his pitching staff, southpaw Eddie Lopat, against young Harry Byrd of the A's.

Lopat, back in the groove after suffering back miseries during the summer, has won his last five starts for a 10-5 record. Byrd, beaten 1-0 by the Yanks last Sunday, carries a 15-14 mark.

There is nothing the runnerup Cleveland Indians can do about the situation. They are idle until Sunday when they open a two-game final series at Detroit.

Trailing by 2½ games the Tribe can only hope for a complete collapse by the champions and two triumphs by themselves over the Tigers. Such an outcome would throw the race in tie and force a one-game playoff in Cleveland Monday.

ALLIE REYNOLDS, the strong-armed right hander, assured the Yankees of a tie Thursday as he joined Hal Newhouser, another veteran moundsman, in producing outstanding performances.

Reynolds' 3-2 conquest of the Boston Red Sox was not only an artistic but a financial success since it went a long way toward making each of the Yankee players some $5,000 richer.

Newhouser, in the twilight of his 14-year career with the Detroit Tigers, can look for no such financial gain, however, but his 3-2 triumph over the St. Louis Browns was the 200th of his major league career and placed him in a select group with 54 other pitchers.

It was a great day for Reynolds, who a year ago this week pitched a no-hitter against the same Red Sox to clinch the Yanks' 1951 championship.

The pitching of the quarter-blooded Creek Indian was not of that variety Thursday, but he drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single to rack up his 20th win of the season.

Only 569 fans — smallest crowd in Briggs Stadium's history — saw the 31-year-old Newhouser strike out eight, walk only one and pitch out of two bad spots in joining the comparatively small group of pitchers who have won 200 games. Only two other active pitchers, Bob Feller and Bobo Newsom, are in the group.

The only day game in the National League saw the New York Giants clinch second place with a two-run ninth inning rally that brought a 3-2 victory over the Boston Braves.

The only night game, like those played in the sunlight, was decided in the ninth inning when the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3.

Half-Million Loss In Grain Seen

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 26.—(P)—The loss from the leaks in the federal grain storage program will be about $500,000 instead of $10 million, Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan believes.

"In the first place the estimate of 10 million dollars in losses is an excessively high figure. Of the actual loss, we have now recovered about 2½ million. Criminal indictments are pending against 32 warehousemen, and civil actions are in progress against several," he said. "We will be able to collect on the bonds of most of them."

Ohioan Buys $35,000 Horse

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(P—I.) J. Collins of Lancaster, O., Thursday paid $35,000 for Cold Command at the annual fall sales of horses-in-training at Belmont Park. The horse was from the consignment of C. V. Whitney.

In 1949 Collins paid $80,000 for Vulcan's Forge, Cold Command's full brother. Collins' bid was the top price paid for 44 head that sold for $181,000.

ONE-MAN HELICOPTER

HOW TO TELL A FLYING saucer from a flying bathtub may cease to be an academic question when the new XH-26 Jet Jeep gets into production. It is the one-man helicopter tested in California.

One writer describes it as resembling an "aluminum bathtub." As it pirouetted aloft, or hovered as if suspended on a wire—or suddenly sped up to 80 miles an hour horizontally—the little machine seemed to fulfill man's age-old yen to fly like a bird. Who hasn't dreamed of being able to fly here and there without worrying about speed in take-off or landing?

But the armed services will have first call on the XH-26 Jet Jeep. It is billed as the "answer to the infantryman's prayer." For reconnaissance work primarily, no doubt, with perhaps occasional rescue missions. The midget windmill weighs only 300 pounds but can lift 600 pounds of "pay load."

The engine is simply two pulse-jets in the ends of the rotor blades. There's no transmission machinery at all—in fact, there's only one moving part in the power plant, a valve which admits air in spurts to mix with fuel which is ignited by compression. The craft can be packed into a jeep trailer or dropped by parachute from an airplane or big helicopter. It will burn kerosene, gasoline or diesel fuel.

This contraption is easily heard. It makes a racket resembling a motorcycle and an oversize outboard rolled into one. But it should not be considered strange if the thoughts of some already are turning to the day in 1956, perhaps, when the M-1 models, made obsolete by the M-2s and M-3s, will be on sale at Army surplus stores.

Not content to wait until November, political analysts are already casting the farm and labor vote.

More than a hundred years ago Daniel Webster said: "Nothing will ruin the country if the people themselves will undertake its safety, and nothing can save it if they leave that safety in any hands but their own." How corny could he get?

Blessed are the peacemakers, especially those who travel around the world on a mileage basis.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—Although the Democrats naturally condemn the Republican vice-presidential candidate's acceptance of outside financial aid, there is hardly a man in public life today who is not the beneficiary of direct or indirect assistance, large or small. There is not a member of Congress who does not understand and sympathize with Nixon's plight.

There is no intention here of condoning or criticizing the Californian. His importance in the campaign simply furnishes an opportunity for a frank and honest discussion of public servants and their pocketbooks.

As a rule, it is a subject which officeholders usually discuss only with their wives or family friends. I have sat in on many of these tragic talks in my 29 years at Washington.

ROOSEVELT—Any candid and historical discussion must start with the admission that the Roosevelt family first showed willingness, even an eagerness, to capitalize on political power and position. Two wrongs do not make a right, but here is a partial record of a negligence or callousness similar to that charged against Nixon:

When Al Smith asked Franklin D. Roosevelt to run for governor of New York in 1928 in order to help carry the state, Roosevelt replied that he had incurred heavy debts in maintaining Warm Springs, which was then operated and financed like any private sanatorium. His periodical visits there helped to stimulate trade.

In order to free FDR of these financial worries and obligations, John J. Raskob, a du Pont executive and Democratic National chairman, handed over $25,000. It is understood that other amounts were contributed by Raskob-Smith friends.

Had it not been for this contribution, which relieved the drain on his cash and credit, FDR might never have become President of the United States.

FAMILY—The Roosevelt family immediately cashed in on their accession to the White House, as no predecessors had ever done. Although only a youngster, "Jimmie" became independently wealthy from selling insurance to large corporations in Boston and New York.

WIVES—President Truman is a key witness to the fact that members of Congress cannot live on their salaries alone, as are Vice President Barkley and the Democrats' vice-presidential nominee, Senator Sparkman of Alabama.

Although the Trumans lived modestly when he was a senator—their apartment rent under federal controls was only $125—Mrs. Truman drew $3,500 a year as an utter stranger to John P. Hartford, he wangled a $210,000

loan from the chain store executive. A friendly phone call from FDR facilitated this amazing transaction. When Elliott defaulted, Jesse H. Jones, at FDR's request, liquidated the $210,000 loan for $4,000 of his own money.

SIDELINES—Now, during this period of presidential financing at and around 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, FDR handled many legislative and regulatory questions affecting the fields in which he and his family had engaged—health, insurance, the brokerage business, chain stores, postal rates for newspapers and magazines.

UNDERSTANDS—Governor Stevenson seemingly understands Nixon's dilemma.

As Illinois executive, he has drafted many able businessmen for his personal and administrative staff. But they could not serve him if they had not been wealthy men, or if their corporation employers had not agreed to keep them on the private payroll.

Stevenson himself might not have been able to afford the luxury of a political career, including a presidential nomination, if he did not have a private income of $25,000 or more.

Admittedly, Nixon's indiscretions may make him a liability among the voters, although not among his congressional colleagues. They undoubtedly have poignant memories of the biblical injunction: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Few men running for public office this year are being as violently attacked as Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana. He is not being accused of dishonesty or corruption. His crime seems to be that he is an American.

It would appear that the internationalists, most of whom supported General Eisenhower for the nomination, care nothing about his election. They assumed that they had nominated two internationalists for the Presidency and that it did not matter at all which one was elected. They have displayed, since the conventions, a rare objectivity, a lack of concern as to what happens to America. All that they require of a President is that he should blindly follow British colonialism in Asia, that he should protect the remnants of the British Empire, that he should support every effort of the United Nations to interfere in our internal affairs by passing covenants which become the law of our land by default.

Unfortunately for their plans, General Eisenhower, once out of uniform, declines to be anyone's cat's paw and so these internationalists are turning to Stevenson. Many of them now hope for the defeat of Eisenhower as they managed to effect the defeat of Taft at the Republican Convention.

This much they are sure they desire, and if you will read the internationalist-controlled press, daily, weekly, monthly, you will discover that they desire the defeat of every member of Congress, particularly of Senators, who have fought the Communists and who have questioned the subordination of the United States to the United Nations.

Every man who has fought Communism or Soviet Russia in Congress is being fought for re-election by unconventionally dirty means. Senator Nixon's role in the conviction of Alger Hiss made him the target for a viciously brutal attack on his integrity. A fortune was spent to defeat Senator Joe McCarthy in the Wisconsin primaries. Every Republican member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities is being opposed for re-election because the liberals have joined the Communists against him.

Senator William Jenner conducted a running fight with the State Department on its China and Korean policies. He believed those policies to be disastrously wrong. They have been proven by the course of events to have been disastrously wrong.

Unlike Governor Dewey, Senator Jenner did not believe that public officials should be protected and even promoted for having shown bad judgment; he demanded fixed responsibility, that those who made such mistakes that Americans have to die on the battlefield for them be held responsible for their decisions. Senator Jenner, not as dramatic as Senator Joe McCarthy, in a dignified and scholarly series of speeches on the Senate floor, exposed the fallacious thinking, the abject appeasement of Soviet Russia, by the State Department. He exposed the Marshall-Acheson evil which has cost us more than 120,000 casualties in Korea and that made a present of China to Soviet Russia.

So the Hissites, the internationalists, the Communists, the anti-anti-Communists and all those who put America second either to Uncle Sam!

CHAPTER NINETEEN
NANCE was at a cocktail party with Roiph. She was a little awed by the living room of their hostess, who, Roiph told her, was in pictures. It was like the inside of a jewel box, with gold brocade walls, inch-thick rugs, and inlaid tables and chairs. Medieval, Nance thought, alone for a moment on a violet leather couch.

And then she saw Libby Oliver in the middle of the room. Nance caught her eye and patted the leather cushion at her side.

Libby came over. She had on a beige linen and she looked washed out. "I don't know why I bother coming to these things," she murmured, sitting down. "Overrated, aren't they?"

Nance smiled. "Not in the novelty stage."

"I can't remember that far back."

"You don't live in New York?"

"No, in a small town. Thurstonia."

"Yes, Ralph did say something—" Libby cocked her small blonde head. "Thurstonia. It rings a bell." She drew her pale brows together. "Why, yes—Steve's ex-wife mentioned it, once. Just before the divorce. She said she was free. I'd forgotten. Although I do recall now the way she said it. Sort of grimly. I thought it strange. But Eve was a strange person."

"Yes."

"Steve should have married Libby."

Nance said carefully, "She was talking about Steve's ex-wife."

"Eve? Libby hated her."

"Did you?"

He grinned. "I'm male, and human. No, I wouldn't say I hated her."

"And Steve?"

"No, he's over that, too."

"Not altogether."

"Oh, the scars. Disillusionment. Bitterness. They'll heal. Pity a girl like Eve had to happen to a nice guy like Steve."

"Did you know that Eve is in Thurstonia?"

It meant absolutely nothing to him for a moment. Then his eyes widened. "Well, well, well! No, I didn't know. Friend of yours?"

"I've met her. Ralph, Eve had something to do with my life, indirectly, before I ever laid eyes on her."

"Did she?"

"Before the Irelands adopted me, they took another child. They changed their minds about keeping her. I don't know why. But I do know that the child was Eve. Mother didn't intend telling me, but I could see that Eve's coming to the house upset her, and she finally told me that much."

Ralph whistled interestingly.

Nance went on. "The Irelands never knew what became of her, until recently. Roiph, Eve didn't just happen to go to Thurstonia. She's there for a reason."

She stopped, frowning, remembering a tag end of conversation she'd overheard between Sam and Eleanor. "Sam, I'm frightened," Nance had heard Eleanor say.

"Eve said she'd pay us back for sending her away. That's why she's here."

Nance thought, now, Eve was nine years old. Surely, if she'd said she'd pay them back, she wouldn't carry a grudge this long?

But if she was angry and resentful

my fourth," she confessed, "and it looks as if Steve isn't going to turn up. I'm in love with him, you know. Everyone knows Steve, too. I even had a fair chance with him, once. But not now. After Eve, we think all women—She stopped. Her eyes came alive. "Well what do you know? He came, after all. Excuse me."

Nance nodded, and watched Libby pick her way rather unsteadily through the crowd to Steve, who had just come in the door.

Ralph came over to her. "Enjoying this?"

She smiled. "Libby was a little overtalkative."

"Three martinis, and Libby spills over with her tale of unrequited love. Steve, I suppose she told you?"

"Yes."

"Steve should have married Libby."

Nance said carefully, "She was talking about Steve's ex-wife."

"Eve? Libby hated her."

"Did you?"

He grinned. "I'm male, and human. No, I wouldn't say I hated her."

"And Steve?"

"No, he's over that, too."

"Not altogether."

"Oh, the scars. Disillusionment. Bitterness. They'll heal. Pity a girl like Eve had to happen to a nice guy like Steve."

Nance thought, now, Eve was nine years old. Surely, if she'd said she'd pay them back, she wouldn't carry a grudge this long?

But if she was angry and resentful at being cast out? She'd resent me, too. Nance thought. She'd be furious at me for taking her place, having everything that was so nearly hers, a home, a family, love. She'll try to hurt me, too.

Nance said aloud to Roiph, "Through Jeremy! Eve could hurt Sam and Eleanor and me through Jeremy. I should have known."

"I missed the thought process leading up to that, so it doesn't make sense to me," Ralph said.

"It does make sense! Roiph, I'm going home. On the first train. There must be something I can do to stop whatever she may try to do. Oh, I was a fool to stay away this long." But she had been hurt, and proud. Only suddenly didn't matter. "I'm going back, Roiph. I'm going to fight her. It's Eleanor's and Sam's happiness, as well as mine and Jeremy's."

She had her bag packed and was waiting for the taxi to take her to Grand Central when the telephone call came from Thurstonia. Kit took it and handed the receiver to Nance.

"It's Sam," she said. "He sounds wrought up."

"Nance?" Sam Ireland's voice sounded thin and strained. "Can you come home, dear? Mother is ill."

"I'm on my way," Nance said. "What is it? Is Jeremy with her?"

There was a long pause.

"Jeremy isn't here, Nance. He and Eve were married this morning. We've just had their wife, Mother's gone all to pieces. Nance, are you there? You all right?"

"Yes." The walls of the room leaned away from her, righted themselves, tipped dizzyingly again.

"I shouldn't have blurted it out like this," Sam said distractedly. "I'm sorry. I

The engine is simply two pulse-jets in the ends of the rotor blades. There's no transmission machinery at all—in fact, there's only one moving part in the power plant, a valve which admits air in spurts to mix with fuel which is ignited by compression. The craft can be packed into a jeep trailer or dropped by parachute from an airplane or big helicopter. It will burn kerosene, gasoline or diesel fuel.

This contraption is easily heard. It makes a racket resembling a motorcycle and an oversize outboard rolled into one. But it should not be considered strange if the thoughts of some already are turning to the day in 1956, perhaps, when the M-1 models, made obsolete by the M-2s and M-3s, will be on sale at Army surplus stores.

Not content to wait until November, political analysts are already casting the farm and labor vote.

More than a hundred years ago Daniel Webster said: "Nothing will ruin the country if the people themselves will undertake its safety, and nothing can save it if they leave that safety in any hands but their own." How corny could he get?

Blessed are the peacemakers, especially those who travel around the world on a mileage basis.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—Although the Democrats naturally condemn the Republican vice-presidential candidate's acceptance of outside financial aid, there is hardly a man in public life today who is not the beneficiary of direct or indirect assistance, large or small. There is not a member of Congress who does not understand and sympathize with Nixon's plight.

There is no intention here of condoning or criticizing the Californian. His importance in the campaign simply furnishes an opportunity for a frank and honest discussion of public servants and their pocketbooks.

As a rule, it is a subject which officeholders usually discuss only with their wives or family friends. I have sat in on many of these tragic talks in my 29 years at Washington.

ROOSEVELT—Any candid and historical discussion must start with the admission that the Roosevelt family first showed willingness, even an eagerness, to capitalize on political power and position. Two wrongs do not make a right, but here is a partial record of a negligence or callousness similar to that charged against Nixon:

Mrs. Roosevelt and Anna, with no previous training or experience, began to earn large fees as magazine and newspaper contributors. Anna's two husbands, Curtis Dahl and the late John Boettiger, improved their financial status in the brokerage and newspaper fields, respectively.

Although Elliott Roosevelt was an utter stranger to John P. Hartford, he wangled a $210,000

These Days

Few men running for public office this year are being as violently attacked as Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana. He is not being accused of dishonesty or corruption. His crime seems to be that he is an American.

It would appear that the internationalists, most of whom supported General Eisenhower for the nomination, care nothing about his election. They assumed that they had nominated two internationalists for the Presidency and that it did not matter at all which one was elected. They have displayed, since the conventions, a rare objectivity, a lack of concern as to what happens to America. All that they require of a President is that he should blindly follow British colonialism in Asia, that he should protect the remnants of the British Empire, that he should support every effort of the United Nations to interfere in our internal affairs by passing covenants which become the law of our land by default.

Unfortunately for their plans, General Eisenhower, once out of uniform, declines to be anyone's cat's paw and so these internationalists are turning to Stevenson. Many of them now hope for the defeat of Eisenhower as they managed to effect the defeat of Taft at the Republican Convention.

This much they are sure they desire, and if you will read the internationalist-controlled press, daily, weekly, monthly, you will discover that they desire the defeat of every member of Congress, particularly of Senators, who have fought the Communists and who have questioned the subordination of the United States to the United Nations.

Every man who has fought Communism or Soviet Russia in Congress is being fought for re-election by unconventionally dirty means. Senator Nixon's role in the conviction of Alger Hiss made him the target for a viciously brutal attack on his integrity. A fortune was spent to defeat Senator Joe McCarthy in the Wisconsin primaries. Every Republican member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities is being opposed for re-election because the liberals have joined the Communists against him.

Senator William Jenner conducted a running fight with the State Department on its China and Korean policies. He believed those policies to be disastrously wrong. They have been proven by the course of events to have been disastrously wrong.

Unlike Governor Dewey, Senator Jenner did not believe that public officials should be protected and even promoted for having shown bad judgment; he demanded fixed responsibility, that those who made such mistakes that Americans have to die on the battlefield for them be held responsible for their decisions. Senator Jenner, not as dramatic as Senator Joe McCarthy, in a dignified and scholarly series of speeches on the Senate floor, exposed the fallacious thinking, the abject appeasement of Soviet Russia, by the State Department. He exposed the Marshall-Acheson evil which has cost us more than 120,000 casualties in Korea and that made a present of China to Soviet Russia.

So the Hissites, the internationalists, the Communists, the anti-anti-Communists and all those who put America second either to (Continued on Page Six)

CHAPTER NINETEEN

NANCE was at a cocktail party with Ralph. She was a little awed by the living room of their hostess, who, Ralph told her, was in pictures. It was like the inside of a jewel box, with gold brocade walls, inch-thick rugs, and inlaid tables and chairs. Medieval, Nance thought, alone for a moment on a violet leather couch.

And then saw Libby Oliver in the middle of the room. Nance caught her eye and patted the leather cushion at her side.

Libby came over. She had on a beige linen and she looked washed out. "I don't know why I bother coming to these things," she murmured, sitting down. "Overrated, aren't they?"

Nance smiled. "Not in the novelty stage."

"I can't remember that far back. You don't live in New York?"

"No, I'm a small town. Thurstonia."

"Yes, Ralph did say something—" Libby cocked her small blonde head. "Thurstonia. It rings a bell." She drew her pale brows together. "Why, yes Steve's ex-wife mentioned it, once. Just before the divorce. She said she was going to Thurstonia when she was free. I'd forgotten. Although I do recall now the way she said it. Sort of grimly. I thought it strange. But Eve was a strange person."

"Yes."

"You know her?"

"Yes, I know her." For now she was sure.

Libby shrugged. "Heaven help our next victim."

Nance caught her breath, but she said lightly, "That has a Lucrezia Borgia flavor!"

"Oh, Eve doesn't carry a vial of poison, but the general effect is the same. If she went to Thurstonia, it's for no good. She'll get what she is after, and someone will be hurt. Not Eve. Eve is never hurt. She's cast iron under that velvet skin. But all that men see—all Steve saw—is the velvet. Funny. He always had a horror of being married for his money. And that's exactly what Eve did. Well, she's beautiful. She'll decoy brighter men than Steve."

"Where is Steve today?" Nance asked.

Libby looked around. "I thought he might be here." Her eyes came back to Nance. "He has changed, and it's Eve's doing. I saw, and if I'd uttered a word, everyone would have said I was jealous. I've known Steve all my life. He used to believe in things. He doesn't, now. Not in anything. And Eve did."

Someone passed drinks, and Nance shook her head, but Libby took another. "I'm afraid this is

Try, Stop Me

It was the second day of the honeymoon, and the young husband remarked, "I didn't realize you always drank coffee for breakfast. What'll we do? I always drink tea." "That's all right, dear," soothed the bride. "You'll soon get used to coffee!"

"Don't you criticize dear mamma," shrieked the Missus. Everything I am today I owe to her." He flipped a quarter over to his wife. "Mail that to mamma," he mocked cruelly. "It'll square your account with her."

When Martin and Lewis learned from their accountant how much of their year's fabulous income would have to be shelled right out again in taxes, Jerry Lewis quipped—with an honest tremor in his voice—"Our entire success we owe to Uncle Sam!"

Old Everts school bell, which for many years called Circleville school children to their classes, was contributed to the scrap drive.

Women of all churches of all denominations were invited to attend the 21st annual conference of Ohio church women in Columbus.

Mrs. Guy Campbell was named to head the flower show committee for this year's Pumpkin Show.

Miss Huston Addresses Business Women's Club

Fifty-Three Are Present At Meet

Miss Olive Huston addressed an audience of 53 members and guests of the Business and Professional Women's club, Thursday evening, at a dinner meeting held in the Mecca Restaurant.

Miss Huston, who is a former president of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women, has also served in the capacity of executive secretary of the national federation, with offices in New York City. She has visited Circleville on several other occasions and is at present directing the campaign to protect the Ohio constitution. She spoke from her wheel chair, to which she has been confined since May with a fractured hip.

"Put Your Part in Partnership", was the topic of Miss Huston's address. It dealt with partnerships between women who work and women who are employed within the home as household executives.

Other partnerships she spoke of included partnerships between working women and men, between women and their communities, state, national, world and partnership with God.

According to Miss Huston, partnership means a togetherness towards a specific goal. The club theme for 1952 was "Full Partnership for the Job Ahead". It was selected by national headquarters as a gesture to Miss Huston, who had suggested it, at the close of World War II.

In regard to the partnership between women who work and men, she said, "never apologize for being a woman and never capitalize on being one". She also said that women have assumed their rights and they must now assume their responsibilities. She also urged more women to run for public office.

In speaking of women and world partnership, Miss Huston reminded her audience that this would mean a "togetherness of all the women in the world with a goal of world peace."

Miss Huston admitted she was a "causist" and launched into a plea for her current cause, the protection of the present Ohio Constitution.

"It is the little slip that counts", Miss Huston said. She was speaking of the little slip, which will be attached to the ballot on Nov. 4, when voters will be asked to decide whether or not it is desirable to change the Ohio constitution. Every twenty years the people are given a chance to vote on a convention for this purpose.

She said that it is possible to change the constitution at any time now by two methods, the first of which is the submission of proposed amendments by the legislature, possible by a three fifths majority vote, or submission of proposed amendments to the people by initiative petition.

Miss Huston said, "the convention method is cumbersome and would cost millions of dollars. We would be opening a Pandora's box

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Shasteen have returned home after spending a week with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Glick and family of Stryker.

Mrs. H. O. Caldwell of near Lockbourne, president of the Pickaway County Women's Republican Club, was invited to sit on the speakers platform, during the recent speech delivered by General Dwight Eisenhower in Columbus. On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell entertained members of the Central Ohio Rose Club with dinner and a tour of their gardens. During the recent show held by the club in Columbus, they were awarded seventeen ribbons and Mrs. Caldwell was awarded a silver trophy for her arrangement of dark red roses and polished pewter. They expect to leave Friday for a weekend trip to visit rose gardens and nurseries at Mentor and Painesville.

Table decorations included an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums and tuberoses, flanked by a small American flag and the club emblem, on the speaker's table, and the smaller tables were centered with yellow and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. Mary Turner was in charge of the decorations.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Agnes Shough of Xenia and Mrs. Katherine Luby of Dayton.

Garden Club Has Steak Fry

Wednesday evening, members of the Circleville Garden Club met in Ted Lewis Park for a twilight steak supper.

Later in the evening the group assembled in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watt, 540 North Court street, for the regular business meeting.

Floyd Bartley and William Cook led the discussion concerning fall planting versus spring planting of trees and shrubs.

Mr. Bartley pointed out the increasing popularity of spring planting.

Twelve members were present. Guests were Mrs. Kirby Drake and George Myers.

Association Meeting Set

Circleville and Pickaway County Girl Scouts will have an association meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the First Methodist church.

A nominating committee will be elected by the group.

Speaker for the evening will be the Rev. George Troutman, who will show slides of his European trip.

Miss Huston said, "the convention method is cumbersome and would cost millions of dollars. We would be opening a Pandora's box for all the radicals and pressure groups. The proposal to appoint judges would deprive people of their right to select public officials and the proposal under which the governor would appoint most other state officials raises the danger of excessive centralization of power. The absence of a genuine need for a convention would be a waste of taxpayer's money."

After Miss Huston's address, Miss Wilmina Phebus, president, conducted a brief business meeting during which the members voted to go on record as opposing the proposed convention.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Rose Rader, public affairs chairman, introduced Miss Yvonne Gibson, who presented two piano selections, "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2" by Liszt, and "Waltz in G Flat" by Chopin. Mrs. Dudley Carpenter sang, "Down in the Forest", by Ronald and "Autumn Time", by Smith. She was accompanied by Mr. Ervin Leist. Miss Clara Southward gave the club collect.

The tenth anniversary of the club will be observed in October. A Halloween party will be held in the home of Mrs. Robert Barnes 578 E. Main street.

Supper was served from a table decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and burning tapers.

Assisting the hostesses were Miss Dottie Boggs, and Miss Edith Defenbaugh.

Prizes for games were awarded Mrs. Fraunfelder, Mrs. Luckhart and Miss O'Hara.

Open house will be held in the Pickaway Country Club, Friday evening following the Circleville

Wilmington football game.

Miss Margaret Boggs is in charge of the arrangements for the event.

On Wednesday evening, a men's supper was held in the club.

Art League Has Session, Plans Show

Members of the Circleville Art League met Thursday evening in the studio for a painting session.

H. E. Montelius showed slides from which the group painted.

The next meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Roger May and Mrs. Henry Schroeder.

It was announced that each member is to submit the titles of the pictures which they intend to display at the Pumpkin Show exhibit at the next meeting, Oct. 9.

The display will take place in the Pickaway County Court House and will consist of pictures by the local league, members of the Chillicothe Art League and pictures from students of a painting class taught by Miss Ruth Montelius.

All members are asked to be present at the next meeting to complete plans for the show.

Awards Are Given At Last Showing Of Talent Show

Approximately 300 persons were present for the second performance of "Shooting Stars," local talent show presented by members of the Circleville Junior Women's Club.

During the evening results of the popularity contest were announced as follows:

For girls, Michele Swift, daughter of Robert Swift, first; Connie Lindsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lindsey, second, and Cynthia Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter, third.

In the boys class, Steven Olney, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Olney was first; Dean Glitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Glitt, second, and Brooks Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis, was awarded third. All of the winners were presented awards.

Mrs. U. L. Riegel of East Mound street was selected as "Queen for a Day," during the Thursday performance.

Pumpkin Show To Bring Bit Of Old Prosperity Era Here

Great Change Seen In Trade Over Century

Records Show City Had Cabin Tavern Thriving In 1810

Many a hotel, motel and rooming house manager in Pickaway County will turn nostalgic dreams toward the days of boom patronage next month when the 1952 Pumpkin Show gives its annual shot in the cash register to public sleeping places for miles around.

There are sure to be bits of bright memory for those who hire beds to the traveling public when the out-of-town visitors begin curling up on any flat surface available, while relatives hang from the chandeliers and the kids are propped already asleep in the corners.

The years have scattered the pot of gold for most of the hostelry business that thrived into the century's early decades, and in some sections into more recent times. It will be a pleasing breath of the past then, when the customers flock here again during the town's yearly rampage.

Those able to recall the gloried era of hotel lobbies filled with bustling ladies, derbed gents and well placed brass cupboards will probably tell again of the age when a rooming house always had a waiting list, at least a couple of bell boys and a picture of Jim Corbett in the pool room.

BUT ONLY the ghosts of a near-forgotten past can tell of an even more vivid time when hotel business was something brand new to Circleville.

Only in the yellowed historical records now are the tales of the days when "people traveled in stage coaches and other horse vehicles and lodged overnight at the hotels on their route".

Local histories in this connection go on to say:

"There were but few turnpikes and the common roads were impassable for vehicles in winter and spring, consequently the leading farmers and traders in livestock came to town on horseback and put up at the hotels.

"The first tavern in Circleville was kept by John Ludwig in a log house which was the first built within The Circle in 1810. The first license for keeping a tavern in Circleville was issued to Charles Bodkin on July 25, 1810.

"The village tavern, in 1819, was kept by Olney Payne.

"The Circleville House was one of the first hotels conducted here, being kept in the brick building on East Main street known as the Harsha house."

The date when the Circleville House was established has been lost apparently in accounts handed down through generations, but it was in operation before 1837.

IN THAT year, the records tell, "the landlord was Jacob Gossler, a clever and sociable Pennsylvania German who set an excellent table."

There were many other hotels soon to follow in the region, and claims of an "excellent table" for each of them were to become as numerous as the hitching posts that lined their prosperous fronts.

Circleville was moving into a long period of well-filled registration books and slowly rising room rates.

The few oldtimers remaining, and the younger ones who still carry on the traditions in Pickaway County, will have much that's worthwhile to look back upon when the Show arrives next month. They'll relate the gay events that packed in the patrons, the distinguished figures who

They label every pro-American, every nationalist, as an isolationist. They denounce every American who is a patriot and who does not believe that it is shameful to love one's country because old Samuel Johnson wrote, in an idle moment, that patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel. It is because Senator Jenner is a patriot that the internationalists attack him.

No magazine hit at Senator Joe McCarthy more diligently than "Life," an internationalist publication published by Henry Luce. No newspaper hit at Joe McCarthy with less objectivity than the "New York Times," which even excoriated the people of Wisconsin for their dumbness in giving McCarthy such a vote of confidence. But the people of Wisconsin measured the purposes of these publications and repudiated them.

It is to be expected that the people of Indiana will tell these outsiders to mind their own business.

Senator Jenner represents Indiana, not New York City. The people of Indiana know that when he opposed the State Department's China and Korea policies, he was fighting for their sons; for the very lives of their sons.

They will not be intimidated by Henry Luce or by any internationalists. Hoosiers are Americans and will vote for an American whose only crime seems to be that he loves his country first.

The Glory of Solomon's Empire

HIS WISDOM AND SPLENDOR WERE KNOWN BY ALL THE EARTH

Scripture—I Kings 4:20-34; 7:1-8; 9:10—11:45.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
 IT HAS been suggested that Israel in the time of King Solomon was in much the same condition in which our own country is today. It was a rich nation. Great building operations were being conducted. Visitors came from far and near to see the glory and imitate the king's wisdom. Taxes, however, were becoming more and more burdensome, and luxury prevailed all over the kingdom.

The reign may be dated approximately between 960 and 920 B.C.—40 years. Nine hundred years before the birth of Christ, Solomon traded with faraway lands like Spain, northwestern Arabia, down on the Red Sea, near the Gulf of Akabah, and on the eastern coast of Africa, where it is thought Ophir may have been located.

"Solomon ruled over all the kingdom from the river (Euphrates) unto the land of the Philistines, and unto the border of Egypt; they brought tribute, and served Solomon all the days of his life."

His own people, Judah and Israel, who "were as many as the sand which is by the sea in multitude," ate and drank and made merry.

Enormous quantities of food were consumed by the king's household, and the king had many thousand horses for his chariots, and many horsemen.

"And Judah and Israel dwelt safely, every man under his own vine and under his own fig-tree, from Dan to Beersheba, all the days of Solomon."

"And God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding exceeding much, and largeness of heart . . . and Solomon's wisdom exceeded the wisdom of all the children of the country, and all the wisdom of Egypt." Men of the east were noted for their wisdom.

"He spake 3,000 proverbs; and his songs were a thousand and five."

"And he spake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall; he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things, and of fishes."

Doesn't that also remind you of our own day, when nature studies are so popular?

His building operations were extensive. He built a house for himself, and one for his Egyptian wife, daughter of the Pharaoh, and many other beautiful and elaborate buildings besides the temple.

The Queen of Sheba heard of the wisdom of Solomon and his

EXCERPT FROM TEACHINGS OF THE BAHAI FAITH

"The religion of God is the One Religion, and all the prophets have taught it, but it is a living and a growing thing, not lifeless and unchanging. In the teaching of Moses we see the Bud, in that of Christ the Flower; in that of Bahai'ullah the Fruit. The flower does not destroy the bud, nor does the fruit destroy the flower. It destroys not, but fulfills. The bud-scales must fall in order that the flower may bloom, and the petals must fall that the fruit may grow and ripen."

"Were the bud-scales and the petals wrong or useless, then, that they had to be discarded? Nay, both in their time were right and necessary; without them there could have been no fruit."

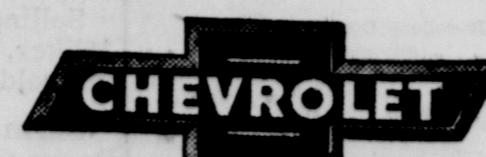

"So it is with the various prophetic teachings; their externals change from age to age, but each revelation is the fulfillment of its predecessors; they are not separate nor incongruous, but different stages in the life history of the One Religion, which has in turn been revealed as seed, as bud and as flower, and now enters on the stage of fruition."

4 additional toll switchboard positions (shown above) are being installed in the central office of the Circleville Telephone Exchange.

When the additional equipment is placed in service about November 1, next, there will be a total of 12 switchboard positions in the Circleville office.

The increased switchboard facilities will enable faster handling of both toll and local calls providing improved telephone service for our subscribers.

The Glory of Solomon's Empire

HIS WISDOM AND SPLENDOR WERE KNOWN BY ALL THE EARTH

Scripture—I Kings 4:20-34; 7:1-8; 9:10-11:43.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
IT HAS been suggested that Israel in the time of King Solomon was in much the same condition in which our own country is today. It was a rich nation. Great building operations were being conducted. Visitors came from far and near to see the glory and imitate the king's wisdom. Taxes, however, were becoming more and more burdensome, and luxury prevailed all over the kingdom.

The reign may be dated approximately between 960 and 920 B.C.—10 years. Nine hundred years before the birth of Christ, Solomon traded with faraway lands like Spain, northwestern Arabia, down on the Red Sea, near the Gulf of Akabah, and on the eastern coast of Africa, where it is thought Ophir may have been located.

"Solomon ruled over all the kingdom from the river (Euphrates) unto the land of the Philistines, and unto the border of Egypt; they brought tribute, and served Solomon all the days of his life."

His own people, Judah and Israel, who "were as many as the sand which is by the sea in multitude," ate and drank and made merry.

Enormous quantities of food were consumed by the king's household, and the king had many thousand horses for his chariots, and many horsemen.

"And Judah and Israel dwelt safely, every man under his own vine and under his own fig-tree, from Dan to Beersheba, all the days of Solomon."

"And God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding exceeding much, and largeness of heart . . . and Solomon's wisdom exceeded the wisdom of all the children of the country, and all the wisdom of Egypt." Men of the east were noted for their wisdom.

"He spake 3,000 proverbs; and his songs were a thousand and five."

"And he spake of trees, from the cedar tree that is in Lebanon even unto the hyssop that springeth out of the wall; he spake also of beasts, and of fowl, and of creeping things and of fishes."

Doesn't that also remind you of our own day, when nature studies are so popular?

His building operations were extensive. He built a house for himself, and one for his Egyptian wife, daughter of the Pharaoh, and many other beautiful and elaborate buildings besides the temple.

The Queen of Sheba heard of the wisdom of Solomon and his great power, and she came visiting to discover for herself if all she had heard was true. She brought with her a list of questions, the nature of which we are not told. Solomon answered them all satisfactorily.

After she "had seen all Solomon's wisdom, and the house that he had built," his manner of living, etc., she told the king:

"It was a true report that I heard in mine own land of thy acts and of thy wisdom."

"Howbeit I believed not the words until I came, and mine eyes had seen it; and, behold, the half was not told me; thy wisdom and prosperity exceedeth the fame of which I heard."

"Happy are thy men, happy are thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and that hear thy wisdom."

"Blessed be the Lord thy God, which delighteth in thee, to set thee on the throne of Israel for ever, therefore made He thee King, to do judgment and justice."

The Queen gave Solomon many valuable gifts before she returned home.

In all the world's history, sad to say, there are far too many fine, gifted men who have attained power and fame, only to become tyrants, "drunk with power," who have misused their gifts and the high places which they have obtained.

So it was with Solomon. With all his wisdom, he fell from Jehovah's favor, and set a degrading example for the people who honored and trusted him. He had enlarged his harem to 1,000 women, which, of itself was a degrading influence, and these women placed a burden on the people of the country who were obliged to pay for their support and lives of luxury.

Furthermore, as Solomon grew old, some of these wives, who worshiped strange and abominable gods, weaned the king away from his perfect worship of Jehovah. Jehovah was angered, and told Solomon that he was no longer worthy of his great position.

At the end of Solomon's reign he had several adversaries, and after his death one of these, Jeroboam, became King of Israel, while Rohoboom reigned only over Judah.

However, the Lord remembered His servant David, and decreed that the kingdom should remain as it was long as Solomon lived, but that when he "slept with his fathers" the kingdom would be divided, and his son, Rohoboom, would reign over only one tribe of Israel.

"So it is with the various prophetic teachings: their externals change from age to age, but each revelation is the fulfillment of its predecessors; they are not separate nor incongruous, but different stages in the life history of the One Religion, which has in turn been revealed as seed, as bud and as flower, and now enters on the stage of fruition."

"Were the bud-scales and the petals wrong or useless, then, that they had to be discarded? Nay, both in their time were right and necessary; without them there could have been no fruit."

Red Wings, Blues in Little Series

MONTREAL, Sept. 26—It will be the Rochester Red Wings against the Kansas City Blues in the Little World Series opening Saturday in Kansas City.

The Wings wrapped up the International League's best-of-seven final playoffs Thursday night when they whipped the pennant winning Montreal Royals, 3-2 to take the set, four games to two. The Blues made it last Sunday and have been waiting to see what team would take the International League playoffs.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S BATTLE against invading Wilmington Hurricane gridders will open the 1952 South Central Ohio League season for this year's Circleville high school football team, (shown above). To date, the Tigers have a 50-50 record entering their first league encounter, having bested Holy Rosary by a 32-6 margin and losing to Linden McKinley by 14-13. Members of this year's Tiger crew are: (left to right, bottom row) Ken Crawford, Bill Barthelmas, Gene

Revised Lineup Due For Tigers In Friday Night League Opener

A revised lineup will feature the Tiger attack force Friday night when Circleville begins its 1952 South Central Ohio League season against invading Wilmington Hurricane gridders.

Tiger Coach Steve Brudzinski said Friday he plans to shift his lineup for Friday's encounter, a shifting involving four players.

Brudzinski said former Tackle Ted Davis will start at center for Walt Heine, while George Troutman will handle the tackle slot.

In the backfield, Right Halfback Tom Elsea will shift to the fullback slot and Charles Rose will take over at right half.

Remainder of the Tiger starting will be the same as that which opened last Friday night at Linden McKinley.

*****

BOTH TEAMS in Friday's first league contest sport records of one victory and one loss to date. The Tigers have won over Holy Rosary while losing to Linden; and Wilmington has won over Lebanon while losing to Xenia.

And both teams are expected to be almost equally matched for Friday's encounter. Each has less than a full team of lettermen returning, Circleville with eight and Wilmington with seven, and both lines will be about equal in weight.

Tiger gridders will be garbed in red pants and white jerseys for the fracas, while Wilmington will have white pants and orange jerseys.

A big feature for local fans will be viewing the field's new 1,620-seat bleachers being completed on the south side of the field.

Probable starting lineups for both squads in the 1952 league opener Friday night are:

Circleville

Ends—Don Skinner and Mike Brown.

Tackles—George Troutman and Robin Jones.

Guards—Bill Brannon and Clyde Cook.

Center—Ted Davis.

Backs—John Wilkes, Fred Davis, Charles Rose and Tom Elsea.

Wilmington

Ends—Ken Smith and Bill Morris.

Tackles—Gerald Bullen and Dick Ewanks.

Guards—Bob Ferguson and Terry Zufarce.

Center—John Garland.

Backs—Eugene Bailey, Dale Inwood, Lyn Eggers and Jim Brooks.

Indiana Due To Test New OSU Offense

COLUMBUS, Sept. 26.—(P)—Indiana, with a new coach, and Ohio State, with a new offense, clash Saturday in the year's first Western Conference grid game.

Bernie Crummis, elevated from a Notre Dame assistant to head man of the Hoosiers, will send a vastly outweighed team against the husky Bucks in hopes of repeating last year's 32-10 upset.

The forward wall of the Hoosiers will average 194 on both offense and defense, while Ohio zooms up to 218 on offense—biggest in the conference—and 209 on defense.

Indiana will present one of the conference's really fine passers in southpaw Lou D'Achille, a 174-pounder who has provided the Bucks with plenty of trouble for three years.

They were "in" as far as sixth place was concerned even before they took the field at St. Louis at night and eventually absorbed a 43-6 beating. The New York Giants killed off Boston's last hope of tying for sixth by beating the Braves in an afternoon game.

In addition to the new offense, Ohio will put a scrambled lineup on the field. John Borton of Alliace, last year's ace frosh linebacker, will be offensive quarterback and do much of the kicking last year's 32-10 upset.

The center of the offensive line is all Massillon, with guards Jim Reichenbach and Mike Takacs on either side of center Jerry Krisher. All are former Tiger standouts. Middletown boasts both ends in Bob Joslin and Bob Grimes.

County Farm Families To Be Polled On Support Views

Farm Bureau To Seek Data In October

Farmers To Say
Which Parity
Plan Best

Have Ohio farmers changed their views on several farm programs?

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation plans to find out. The farm organization has announced it will conduct a poll among its membership of over 55,000 farm families during October.

Ohio farmers will indicate whether they favor guaranteed 90 percent rigid supports or flexible price supports.

Specifically, farmers will be asked by the Farm Bureau to check which of the following statements with which they agree:

1) I favor the Agricultural Act of 1949 with flexible price supports at 75 to 90 percent of parity;

2) I favor the Agricultural Act of 1949 as amended in 1952 to provide for government guarantee of 90 percent of parity;

3) I do not favor any system of government price supports;

4) (Other opinion)—

According to Everett F. Rittenour, Piketon, Farm Bureau president:

"The Ohio Farm Bureau backed the Agricultural Act of 1949 as the best means of getting the farmer a fair net income. We have always believed that a long-range farm program should be developed that would enable the farmer to get 100 percent parity."

"This should be brought about with a minimum of government controls. Since the Act has been amended, we are now polling our members to determine the feeling at this time."

The Farm Bureau indicated the 1949 Act provided for price supports at 75 to 90 percent of parity (that price which will give the same buying power to a bushel or a pound of farm products that it had in the years 1910-14) on the six

Bookie Lists Ike, Adlai As Even Bet

LONDON, Sept. 26—(UPI)—A leading British handbook says a sharp shift in the betting on the U. S. presidential election has made Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower an even-money chance—in Britain—to beat Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Ten days ago Stevenson was quoted as the 1 to 3 favorite. A spokesman for the handbook, Douglas Stuart, Ltd., of London, said the odds now are 10 to 11 and take your pick. The spokesman said the furor over Republican vice presidential candidate Richard Nixon's expense fund apparently had had no effect on the rise in Eisenhower's stock.

basic commodities—cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts.

THE MARKET price was the guide to the farmer in how much and what to produce of each commodity. Those favoring the flexible principle believe there would be less government control with this method.

In 1952, Congress amended the Agricultural Act of 1949, setting aside the flexible provision, continuing the dual system of computing parity (based on either the 1910-14 period or on the most recent 10-year period, whichever method gives the farmer the best prices), and providing for mandatory price supports of 90 percent parity on the six basic commodities.

This means a government guarantee of 90 percent of parity. Advocates of 90 percent supports believe this level of support will not result in excessive government controls.

Rev. George Troutman And Son Tell Rotary Of European Trip

The Rev. George Troutman, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, and his son, George Jr., gave highlights and data on their trip to Europe this Summer during a meeting of Circleville Rotary Club Thursday noon in Elks Club.

Seven countries were visited by the Troutmans during their trip, which they took principally to attend the Lutheran conference in Hanover, Germany.

The Rev. Mr. Troutman spoke upon "Displaced Persons."

He said the term applied to individuals who were driven from their countries and were living elsewhere. He said that in one camp, which they visited, persons of seven nationalities were living and working together.

Of particular interest were the refugee camps, where persons who have risked their lives to escape the Russian zone, were living. He said 150 persons were being received daily in just one of these camps from the Russian zone. There they wait to see if they will be accepted as citizens of Western Germany.

IF ACCEPTED, they are given permission to live in the section and the Germans try to make places for them in their community. However, 50 percent are not accepted and they are clothed, given a small sum of money and sent out to work out their lives as best they can. Many work as gleaners and live in the woods, for the Germans are not allowed to hire them and they cannot be sent back to the Russian zone.

The Rev. Mr. Troutman said that these people are daily escaping from the Russian zone by the thousands.

He also said that, on the whole, he found the Germans were well pleased with what America is doing for them. They think the Marshall Plan is fine, but they appreciate working a little for what they get; therefore they appreciate the American tourist even more.

In France, Switzerland and Holland the people were interested in taking advantage of the tourist, but that was not the case in Germany.

George Troutman Jr., who lived in a private home during his stay in Hanover, was particularly interested in the youth of the nation. He said he spoke to youth who were trained under Hitler and that the German youth felt Stalin was training the youth of Russia in the same manner.

He also said that the German youth is more informed on matters of government than are the American youth.

During a question and answer period following his talk, the Rev. Mr. Troutman said that they are trying to sell Germany on the idea of Democracy in the church. Under the present setup, individuals are assessed a certain sum for their church by the government, which in turn pays the minister and the other bills.

He ended his talk by stating every family he had been in contact with has had some type of disaster.

U.S. Polio List Continuing Up

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(UPI)—For the fifth straight week, a record number of new cases of infantile paralysis was reported by the Public Health Service.

Listing 4,190 cases for the week ended Sept. 20, the agency said the total for the "disease year" which started with the week ended April 5 reached 34,291, or 4,038 more than in the similar period of 1949, the previous record year.

Handbook Tells Air Force Tips

DAYTON, Sept. 26—(UPI)—The Air Force is offering a free handbook on how to do business with the flying corps.

Entitled "A Guide for Selling to the United States Air Force," it is available at the Air Materiel Command of the Wright-Patterson base near Dayton.

'Eternal Light' Honors War Dead

WILMINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 26—(UPI)—An "eternal light" is burning atop Whiteface Mountain in memory of the nation's war dead.

The beam of the electric light, mounted on the summit of the 3,872-foot Adirondack Peak, is visible for many miles.

County Farm Families To Be Polled On Support Views

Farm Bureau To Seek Data In October

Farmers To Say
Which Parity
Plan Best

Have Ohio farmers changed their views on several farm programs?

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation plans to find out. The farm organization has announced it will conduct a poll among its membership of over 55,000 farm families during October.

Ohio farmers will indicate whether they favor guaranteed 90 percent rigid supports or flexible price supports.

Specifically, farmers will be asked by the Farm Bureau to check which of the following statements with which they agree:

1) I favor the Agricultural Act of 1949 with flexible price supports at 75 to 90 percent of parity;

2) I favor the Agricultural Act of 1949 as amended in 1952 to provide for government guarantee of 90 percent of parity;

3) I do not favor any system of government price supports;

4) (Other opinion)—

According to Everett F. Rittenour, Piketon, Farm Bureau president:

"The Ohio Farm Bureau backed the Agricultural Act of 1949 as the best means of getting the farmer a fair net income. We have always believed that a long-range farm program should be developed that would enable the farmer to get 100 percent parity."

"This should be brought about with a minimum of government controls. Since the Act has been amended, we are now polling our members to determine the feeling at this time."

The Farm Bureau indicated the 1949 Act provided for price supports at 75 to 90 percent of parity (that price which will give the same buying power to a bushel or a pound of farm products that it had in the years 1910-14) on the six

Bookie Lists Ike, Adlai As Even Bet

LONDON, Sept. 26—A leading British handbook says a sharp shift in the betting on the U. S. presidential election has made Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower an even-money chance—in Britain—to beat Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Ten days ago Stevenson was quoted as the 1 to 3 favorite. A spokesman for the handbook, Douglas Stuart, Ltd., of London, said the odds now are 10 to 11 to take your pick. The spokesman said the furor over Republican vice presidential candidate Richard Nixon's expense fund apparently had no effect on the rise in Eisenhower's stock.

basic commodities—cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts.

THE MARKET price was the guide to the farmer in how much and what to produce of each commodity. Those favoring the flexible principle believe there would be less government control with this method.

In 1952, Congress amended the Agricultural Act of 1949, setting aside the flexible provision, continuing the dual system of computing parity (based on either the 1910-14 period or on the most recent 10-year period, whichever method gives the farmer the best prices), and providing for mandatory price supports of 90 percent parity on six basic commodities.

This means a government guarantee of 90 percent of parity. Advocates of 90 percent supports believe this level of support will not result in excessive government controls.

Rev. George Troutman And Son Tell Rotary Of European Trip

The Rev. George Troutman, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, and his son, George Jr., gave highlights and data on their trip to Europe this Summer during a meeting of Circleville Rotary Club Thursday noon in Elks Club.

Seven countries were visited by the Troutmans during their trip, which they took principally to attend the Lutheran conference in Hanover, Germany.

The Rev. Mr. Troutman spoke upon "Displaced Persons."

He said the term applied to individuals who were driven from their countries and were living elsewhere. He said that in one camp, which they visited, persons of seven nationalities were living and working together.

Of particular interest were the refugee camps, where persons who have risked their lives to escape the Russian zone, were living. He said 150 persons were being refor them. They think the Marshall Plan is fine, but they appreciate working a little for what they get; therefore they appreciate the American tourist even more.

In France, Switzerland and Holland the people were interested in taking advantage of the tourist, but that was not the case in Germany.

George Troutman Jr., who lived in a private home during his stay in Hanover, was particularly interested in the youth of the nation. He said he spoke to youth who were trained under Hitler and that the German youth felt Stalin was training the youth of Russia in the same manner.

He also said that the German youth is more informed on matters of government than are the American youth.

During a question and answer period following his talk, the Rev. Mr. Troutman said that they are trying to sell Germany on the idea of Democracy in the church. Under the present setup, individuals are assessed a certain sum for their church by the government, which in turn pays the minister and the other bills.

He ended his talk by stating every family he had been in contact with has had some type of disaster.

U.S. Polio List Continuing Up

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—For the fifth straight week, a record number of new cases of infantile paralysis was reported by the Public Health Service.

Listing 4,190 cases for the week ended Sept. 20, the agency said the total for the "disease year" which started with the week ended April 5 reached 34,291, or 4,038 more than in the similar period of 1949, the previous record year.

Handbook Tells Air Force Tips

DAYTON, Sept. 26—The Air Force is offering a free handbook on how to do business with the flying corps.

Entitled "A Guide for Selling to the United States Air Force," it is available at the Air Materiel Command of the Wright-Patterson base near Dayton.

'Eternal Light' Honors War Dead

WILMINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 26—

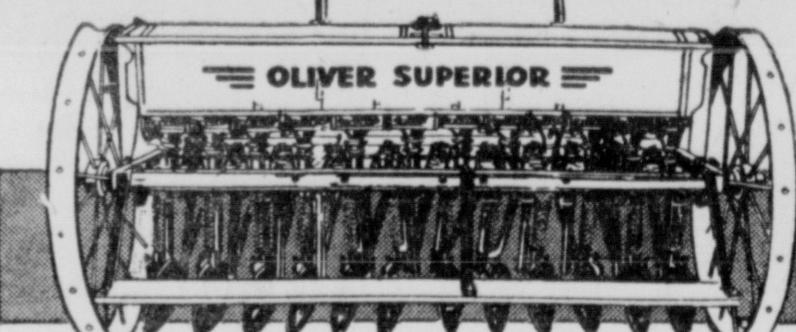

An "eternal light" is burning atop Whiteface Mountain in memory of the nation's war dead.

The beam of the electric light, mounted on the summit of the 3,872-foot Adirondack Peak, is visible for many miles.
